Consultation for Mental Health and Legal Professionals

Consultation services are also provided to other mental health professionals and legal professionals. The professionals at Family Solutions have knowledge of the separation/divorce process, dispute resolution, child development, and high-conflict issues, and can assist other mental health professionals and lawyers in evaluating and planning strategies for their own cases. For mental health professionals, knowledge about, and clinical experience with high-conflict divorce in particular may assist in planning and working with these challenging clients and families. For lawyers, knowledge and experience in the spectrum of divorce situations may assist in strategic planning and evaluating options for their clients.
